

ANGELA BODNAR

FLDP LEAD FINANCIAL ANALYST - FINANCE, AT&T

Angela Bodnar is currently in her third rotation in the Financial Leadership Development Program. As a Lead Financial Analyst in Corporate Financial Planning, she provides support for WarnerMedia financial planning and merger integration synergies.

During her first rotation in Global Business Solutions, she handled monthly revenue reporting and margin analysis and worked on technology initiatives to improve efficiency in the finance department. Angela spent her second rotation at AT&T's Video Management Center in New York City where she managed a team of network technicians and collaborated with engineering teams on new software implementation to improve the ordering, provisioning, and billing process for broadcast video customers. Angela first joined AT&T as an intern in AT&T Business Solutions where she worked on a project to improve revenue and commission forecasting related to third party telecom providers.

Angela holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Syracuse University in Economics and International Relations. She began her career as a journalist for China Radio International and also worked in advertising before earning a Master of Business from Carnegie Mellon University. She resides in Dallas, Texas with her husband.