Privacy Notice

Before registering for this event you must read and agree to the below Privacy Notice

DCO is using the US based company, vFairs LLC, to provide a virtual transition seminar service. If you choose to proceed to register for the virtual seminar, you will be requested to consent to vFairs' standard privacy policy (available at <https://www.vfairs.com/privacy-policy/>) as part of the registration process and vFairs will collect a small amount of personal information for registration and reporting purposes. While vFairs has agreed to some additional privacy controls on your information (see below), it is important you understand that information you disclose to vFairs will be stored in the US (not Australia) and vFairs complies with the EU's General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR). Information about the GDPRs and how they compare to the Australian Privacy Principles is available at <https://www.oaic.gov.au/privacy/guidance-and-advice/australian-entities-and-the-eu-general-data-protection-regulation/#comparison-table>.

In addition to its standard privacy policy, vFairs has agreed the following special conditions will apply to the personal information you provide. The special conditions are:

- You will only be asked for your name and email address at registration
- You may register using a pseudonym/first name only with a non-identifying email address (if you wish),
- vFairs will only use your information for the purpose of providing the seminar and those details will not be used for any other purpose (e.g. direct marketing)
- vFairs will not disclose your details to other participating companies (e.g. other stall-holders) unless you have expressly authorised such disclosure to a particular company, and
- vFairs will delete all personal information at the conclusion of a defined period after each online seminar.

Please note, that if you provide personal information to other participating companies (e.g. stall-holders) that information will be subject to that other company's privacy policy. Further, given your personal information is not being collected in Australia, you should exercise discretion when deciding what information you choose to disclose during the seminar (e.g. during a chat room discussion) to any other participant. If in doubt, you always have the option of arranging to liaise with another participant offline through other channels.

By proceeding to join the seminar you are deemed to have acknowledged the above Privacy Notice.
