ABOUT BLACK HEALTH MATTERS

Black Health Matters is the world's largest African American multi-channel health communications company. We provide focused solutions to improve the health outcomes of underserved communities and people of color. On July 13th, Black Health Matters is partnering with Kappa Alpha ® Psi Fraternity, Inc. to produce Black Health's biggest event! The Summit focuses on achieving our ultimate goal of improving the lack of health awareness that exists in the African American community. Black Health Matters values the significance of health education--the black community deserves to have access to the resources that provide individuals with more opportunities to lead healthier lives. The BHM/Kappa Summit aims to provide quality education on essential healthcare topics that have been historically underrepresented in conversations within the Black community.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. The BHM/Kappa Summit will address an intersectional array of healthcare topics as they relate to the black and minority communities in a series of dialogues with esteemed presenters. The BHM/Kappa Summit aims to explore health education through a diverse lens where different areas of mental and physical health are discussed.
2. The BHM/Kappa Summit will advocate to bring awareness for health equity so that physicians and healthcare providers in the United States understand how minority groups are impacted differently by the healthcare system. By understanding the systemic disadvantages that are placed on the black community, the BHM/Kappa Summit will open up a dialogue about the future of equitable health services in America.
3. The BHM/Kappa Summit plans to have wide outreach to the largest audience possible. The platform that houses this content will remain up and open for three months past July 13th for continual learning after the premiere. By offering the forum on a virtual platform, Black Health Matters hopes that all communities value and recognize the importance of discussing black health through meaningful dialogue.
