

2022 HCBS Conference Video Challenge

For this year's HCBS Conference we are highlighting the crucial work that is done daily by direct service workers (DSW's) and direct service professionals (DSP's) whose efforts to care for people of all abilities and all ages often go unappreciated.

The video submissions should mirror a "day in the life" trend. We want to see DSP's walking through some of the day-to-day tasks they perform in order to ensure the well-being of their clients. Some of these activities may include activities such as cooking, cleaning, administering medication, or accompanying clients to and from health-related appointments. We want these videos to highlight the unsung heroes of the healthcare workforce while also focusing on the close relationship that develops between caregiver and client throughout this profession. With this in mind, we urge DSP's and DSW's to feature their clients in the videos with them and fill out the release form below in order to receive their permission to be filmed.
