Andrews Bible Commentary

Light. Depth. Truth.

Ángel Manuel Rodríguez

General Editor

The Andrews Bible Commentary is a companion to the Andrews Study Bible. Together they provide a remarkably comprehensive and concise Bible study resource. You will be led to a life of service for Christ and the hope of His soon return.

The Andrews Bible Commentary was written by 60 leading biblical scholars from around the world. It's designed for both the new believer, the experienced Bible student, pastors, and teachers. Its purpose is to trace the blessed hope (Titus 2:13) in the pages of Scripture and to lead to the ability to read the entirety of the Bible in the light of that hope. What does the Bible say to believers who, with both longing and joy, anticipate the return of Jesus? Answering that question is at the heart of the Andrews Bible Commentary, which seeks to instruct and inspire all to form a stronger personal relationship with God that focuses worship on Jesus as Savior and Lord.

"I am so incredibly proud and grateful for the work of these scholars of the church in this first-of-a-kind Commentary. They placed themselves in the hands of the Lord and they have made an outstanding contribution that will bless the church for years to come. I have been honored and privileged to be part of the team."

—Ángel Manuel Rodríguez, General Editor

- Informative charts to provide enlightening historical context
- High-quality binding, simply yet elegantly designed
- A conveniently attached bookmark ribbon

"The books of Daniel and the Revelation should be bound together and published. A few explanations of certain portions might be added. . . . It was my idea to have the two books bound together, Revelation following Daniel, as giving fuller light on the subjects dealt with in Daniel. The object is to bring these books together, showing that they both relate to the same subjects."

Ranko Stefanovic is professor of New Testament at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University in Michigan. He holds a PhD degree from Andrews University and is a well-loved teacher, popular speaker, and author of scholarly articles.

Plain Revelation

Ranko Stefanovic

In today's world, no other part of the Bible inspires so much interest, speculation, sensationalism, and confusion as the book of Revelation. This seems strange for a book that claims to be a revelation of Jesus Christ, but it doesn't need to be that way. In this concise reader's introduction, Revelation expert Dr. Ranko Stefanovic makes it all plain and simple. In a straight-forward, no-nonsense way, the author leads us scene by scene through this amazing panorama of cosmic war and glory. Through it all, we see the astounding picture of a Creator God who wins it all with justice and love as Jesus Christ is plainly revealed as King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

“Aunque todos los libros de la Biblia fueron inspirados por Dios, ningún otro libro de las Sagradas Escrituras presenta a Jesucristo como su autor, ni muestra el futuro como lo hace el Apocalipsis. En esta versión abreviada de su comentario del libro del Apocalipsis, el Dr. Stefanovic transmite con fluidez y claridad los conceptos principales de su obra original. Este libro debiera ser leído por todos aquellos que vivimos en la undécima hora de la historia de nuestro planeta.”

Jacques B. Doukhan, DHebLett, ThD, is professor emeritus of Hebrew and Old Testament exegesis at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary and director emeritus of the Institute of Jewish-Christian Studies at Andrews University. He is General Editor for the Seventh-day Adventist International Bible Commentary.

Daniel 11 Decoded

Jacques Doukhan

Daniel 11 is widely described as one of the most cryptic, complex texts in the Bible. Perhaps more than any other passage, it uses what appears to many to be heavily coded language while ostensibly describing world events from the Persian period to our day. Thus, credible attempts by faithful scholars to read that code can lead in markedly different directions.

Writing from a solidly historicist perspective in prophetic interpretation, Jacques Doukhan lays the groundwork for this masterful study in several short chapters by (1) critiquing the history of its interpretation; (2) examining its literary context; (3) closely examining its relationship to Daniel 8; (4) decoding the meaning of particular expressions; and (5) giving particular attention to the words, grammar, and literary structure.

These are the foundation to Doukhan's main task, which comprises the bulk of the book: a verse-by-verse and even word-by-word exegesis and commentary of the text, with a methodical appeal to other sources, richly referenced, from the history of interpretation. This forms the basis for his own remarkable claim to a new understanding of this enigmatic chapter.

In the years of their formative stages, Doukhan's new ideas have been reviewed, affirmed, critiqued, and disputed by his academic peers and immediate colleagues. They are presented here to make his first formal, forceful, and unique argument that will set a milestone to mark the long pathway of our understanding of Daniel 11 for years to come.

Biblical Hebrew Reviewer

A Universal Study Companion

Oliver Glanz

This minimalist booklet provides the student of biblical Hebrew with a panoramic view of the morphological forms of the language. Its convenient and concise format is ideal for supplementing textbooks in the preparation for quizzes and exams. Using this booklet will greatly facilitate the learning process for anyone eager to dive into the original Hebrew of the biblical text. Rehearsing the paradigms on a regular basis will make the reading of the Hebrew Bible easier, and the task of exegesis can be carried out more efficiently.

The Genesis Creation Account and Its Reverberations in the New Testament

Edited by Thomas R. Shepherd

This forthcoming volume reviews how the creation account of Genesis 1 to 2 is a major theme in the New Testament and Second Temple Jewish literature. The inescapable conclusion is that the theme and literal nature of creation resounds throughout the Bible as an expression of praise to the Creator.

"This remarkable collection of studies on Genesis 1 and 2 takes one into the world when the chapters were first written and leads the reader through the Scriptural reflections on this most important of teaching among the poets, prophets, and wisdom writers of the Old Testament."

Salvation

Contours of Adventist Soteriology

Edited by Martin F. Hanna, Darius W. Jankiewicz and John W. Reeve

Salvation strongly affirms Adventism's Protestant soteriological roots, further refined by the work of the seventeenth-century Reformer Jacob Arminius. Built on the Protestant principles of sola gratia et fides and solī Deo gloria, this book is organized according to the five tenets of Arminianism: Conditional Election, Unlimited Atonement, Total Depravity, Resistible Grace, and Christian Assurance/Sanctification. This is a book for our time on the great theme that will be our study for all eternity.

Systematic Theology

Creation, Christ, Salvation (Vol. 3)

Norman R. Gulley

"Professor Norman Gulley's third volume of his Systematic Theology is a magnum opus. He convincingly demonstrates how Christian theology is not only rooted in the biblical doctrine of Creation, but stands or falls on it. There is no place for theistic evolution. His sound exegetical principles, comprehensive approach, and profound biblical insights make this an excellent volume."

Steps to Christ

With Historical
Introduction and Notes
by Denis Fortin

Ellen G. White

The second volume in the Inspirational Classics series, this book features the enduring Christian literary classic Steps to Christ by Ellen G. White, which has been translated into approximately 160 languages since its first publication in 1892. It is the most widely read work of its author, whose prolific literary productions are recognized as significant contributions to Christian literature of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

The publication of this landmark 125th anniversary annotated edition of Steps to Christ was specifically designed to coincide with the 500th anniversary of one of the most important events in the history of Western civilization. In the autumn of 1517, Martin Luther first disseminated the Ninety-Five Theses—an ardent remonstrance against the abuses and errors of the church of his time.

This special edition includes a historical and theological introduction giving a brief history of the book. Each chapter has a brief introduction, which includes a list of recommended further reading and a description of the antecedents of that chapter. Each chapter also has annotations to clarify or expand some of the thoughts expressed in the chapter. A helpful appendix cross-references Ellen White's other writings.

Design and Catastrophe

51 Scientists Explore Evidence in Nature

Edited by L. James Gibson, Ronny Nalin, and Humberto M. Rasi

In this unique book, 51 professional scientists, men and women of faith from a wide range of disciplines, provide short essays in their respective areas of expertise demonstrating some aspect of the design:catastrophe paradigm. Though written by experts, the essays are easily accessible to non-specialists, making this book extremely useful in the college and seminary classroom, and for the lifelong learner.

Design and Catastrophe does not attempt to prove the veracity of the biblical account of origins and a global Flood as recorded in the book of Genesis. Rather, in these 51 essays, it richly samples the overwhelming evidence of design and catastrophe in the world around us. In so doing, it invites us to look to the Scriptures for an explanation that provides meaning and purpose for our lives and what we discover in nature.

"These essays on earth and life sciences, physics, mathematics and astronomy ably illustrate that Scripture provides a solid platform from which to explore the natural world through scientific research. This delightful and compelling book reveals the real scientific truth about design and catastrophe to the glory of the Ultimate Designer and to the One who sat as King over the mabbul, the global Flood of Genesis (Ps. 29:10)."

Faith, Reason, and Earth History, 3rd ed.

A Paradigm of Earth and Biological Origins by Intelligent Design

Leonard Brand and Arthur Chadwick

This volume presents an argument for constructive thinking about origins and earth history in the context of Scripture, showing readers how to analyze available scientific data and approach unsolved problems. Faith does not need to fear the data, but can contribute to progress in understanding earth history within the context of God's Word while still being honest about unanswered questions.

This fully updated third edition includes additional contributions from joint author Arthur Chadwick. In this patient explanation of the mission of science and its application to questions about origins and earth history, the authors model their conviction that "above all, it is essential that we treat each other with respect, even if we disagree on fundamental issues."

The original edition of this work (1997) was one of the first books on this topic written from the point of view of an experienced research scientist. A career biologist, paleontologist, and teacher, Brand brings to this well-illustrated book a rich assortment of practical scientific examples.

This thoughtful and rigorous presentation makes this landmark work highly useful both as a college-level text and as an easily accessible treatment for the educated lay person.

The Scriptural Foundations for Business series, edited by Michael E. Cafferky and Bruce Wrenn, comprises materials for the core business courses in most college schools or departments of business, commerce, or economics. As such, it provides a spiritual perspective that is needed to prepare a person of faith for a career in the world of business, whether in for-profit or not-for-profit enterprises. This series provides inspiration and education for living “a life worthy of the calling” (Ephesians 4:1) as God’s man or woman in the marketplace.

The Faith and Learning series, co-sponsored by the Center for College Faith at Andrews University and the Department of Education of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, addresses the challenge of teaching material that can be generally thought of as secular in a way that meets the Christian’s goal of building faith not only in the Christian message but also in the Adventist understanding of Christianity and in its mission to the world. Teachers and students can turn to these supplemental texts for insights about how to weave faith into their studies.

Educating for Eternity

A Seventh-day Adventist
Philosophy of Education

George R. Knight

Writing both for the educated layperson and the professional educator, George Knight crafts a bracing, inspiring, and invigorating reminder of what serious Adventists must demand from their schools—and from their educators.

Philosophy and Education, 4th ed.

An Introduction in Christian Perspective

George R. Knight

Philosophy and Education has been a classic in its field for more than a quarter of a century. Features of this edition, including a new chapter on the Christian teacher in the public school setting and “Points to Ponder” study questions, make it of even greater usefulness in the educational philosophy classrooms.

Issues and Alternatives in Educational Philosophy, 4th ed.

George R. Knight

This book highlights the relationship between theory and practice and is suitable for undergraduate students in educational philosophy, graduate students who need a quick review of the topic, and teachers of educational philosophy who want their students to spend maximum time in primary sources while using a comprehensive text for orientation and overview.

Madaba Series

The Madaba Plains Project series reports on seasonal findings from the excavations at Tall al-'Umayri and vicinity conducted by a consortium of colleges and universities including Andrews University. In its field reports and descriptions of the various seasons, this series provides analyses of such aspects as the food and water systems, sedentarization, nomadization, ancient environment, and ceramic and small finds.

Assyriological Series

The Assyriological Series publishes the Siegfried H. Horn Archaeological Museum's cuneiform tablet collection of about 3,000 tablets, one of the largest in North America. The first three volumes are ready references to the list of kings of Isin and Larsa. The remaining volumes present selected groups of tablets from the Horn Museum collection.

Sutherland House

Originally named Brooknook because of its vantage point overlooking Lem-on Creek, a tributary of the St. Joseph River, Sutherland House was built in 1902. It was the first building erected on the Andrews University campus when the institution, then known as Battle Creek College, was moved to Berrien Springs, Michigan, and re-named Emmanuel Missionary College in the fall of 1901. The spacious two-story structure was built as the home for the school’s president, Edward A. Sutherland, and was later used variously through the years as a women’s residence, infirmary, and housing for married students. By the early 1980s it was in a very poor condition and was slated for demolition. A University Trustee, Elsie L. Buck, persuaded her colleagues to save the building. Mrs. Buck raised the funds necessary for a complete renovation, and the house re-opened in 1987 as the headquarters for the Institute of World Mission. When that organization moved to new quarters in the Seminary building, Sutherland House, with the addition of a new “carriage house” that serves as the warehouse, became the home of Andrews University Press in 2005.
