From the Heart

ADRA Angels hold a special place in our family of supporters. They're committed, generous, and inspired, and their reasons for giving are as unique as they are.

I give to ADRA because I believe we have a commitment to the world, and frankly I enjoy giving. ADRA is the gospel with shoes on. It's bringing the love of God.

–Harold

I am no angel. It is easy to give from having enough. The single mother working two or three jobs to support her kids or the father going without food so his family can eat, those are the angels.

I believe consistent giving is the key to building the potential of ADRA. Challenges exist, so consistent giving is necessary to combat those challenges.

—Arthur

It makes me feel so good to give, but I do not like to be boastful about it. I truly give with a cheerful heart and pray that God blesses and helps those with urgent needs.
