

Guiding Care Decisions: What Matters

May 2, 2023

INTRODUCTIONS

Dr. Adrienne Mims, MD., MPH, FAAFP, AGSF

Chief Medical Officer (CMO), Rainmakers Solutions LLC
Founding Member, Georgia Alzheimer's and Related
Dementia

Dr. Michael Harper, MD., AGSF, FACP

President, American Geriatrics Society
Professor, School of Medicine (UCSF)
Physician, San Francisco Veterans Affairs Medical Center

Joe Montminy

Dementia Advocate

Moderator

Dr. Shari Ling

Deputy Chief Medical Officer,
Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services

OBJECTIVES

- Address the importance of mutual decision making
- Identify gaps in patient-clinician decision making in dementia care planning
- Describe how health care providers can engage in meaningful person-centered decision making

PANEL DISCUSSION

For Joe Montminy

How can health care providers engage in person-centered decision making with people living with dementia, and their caregivers?

For Dr. Mims and Dr. Harper

- How do clinicians engage in meaningful and person-centered decision making with people living with dementia beginning with delineating their care goals?
- What are some best practices for discussing risks and benefits as people consider medication, procedures, and new treatments, so that the decision-making is aligned with the person's goals?

For Dr. Mims

What quality improvement tips and tools can you share that could help clinicians better engage with patients, and to help align their clinical management with the person's care goals?

For Dr. Harper

People living with dementia often have other medical issues managed by specialists. What are the key opportunities for initiating and building inter-specialty and multi-disciplinary care teams?

For Joe Montminy

From your perspective, what improvements should be prioritized by health care providers across the needs of people living with dementia?

THANK YOU!

